

A tourist in Australia

One morning in Australia, a tourist was walking next to a river, the Australian south river.

A crocodile was watching the tourist. The tourist wanted to touch the water to take the temperature when the crocodile jumped at his hand and bit him and "Ouch"!!!

the tourist screamed. The crocodile didn't want to free his hand. The tourist couldn't free his hand "Ouch!!" the tourist screamed again. He hit the crocodile "Bang,bang,bang!" but the crocodile didn't want to move.

The crocodile and the tourist were fighting in the river when a strong man appeared with a gun and he shot the crocodile. The man opened the jaws of the crocodile and freed the hand of the tourist. The tourist was wounded, the strong man had a badge and there was a word: "Ranger". The tourist said "Oh, thank you, thank you very much. I was touching the water when a crocodile bit my hand. I was screaming but nobody heard me; Thank you very much.

-Oh you're welcome but it's bad to kill a crocodile. It's a protected species, ok, now I call the firemen".

The firemen came and the tourist was cured at the hospital.

END !!

