

My week in Australia

On that day, in the afternoon, we went to the beach with my friends because it was sunny.

So, I was swimming alone, when I heard a big bang. The lifesaver was shouting:

It's a shark! Go back to the beach!

I wanted to go swimming.

I was scared to death, so I swam really very fast.

I'm sorry, I haven't any pictures of this moment!

The second day,

I was walking in the forest, in the end of the afternoon. It was very quiet. The trees were very big and high. There wasn't light: all was dark green. I was looking at beautiful yellow, purple, orange, red and pink flowers, when I saw a tourist and an Australian girl. The tourist had green shorts and a flowery shirt. The girl was slim.

They were looking at a koala in a tree. The tourist - who was a little stupid - was fascinated. He thought the koala was very cute (and it was true, it was very cute) and he wanted to touch it and he decided to climb up in the tree. But he wasn't gifted and he fell in a big bang! I cracked up! That was very funny!
